

Selling and letting your home during the Covid 19 pandemic?

Steps we are taking to protect our staff and customers

Here at Hunters, we always put our staff and customers at the centre of what we do. Many of you will need to, despite current circumstances, sell, let or buy property and many of you will be renting accommodation through Hunters right now. We would like to assure you that the well-being of our customers and our employees remains our priority during the global Coronavirus pandemic

As a business, we are following the guidelines and recommendations given by the government and we will continue to do so.

If you are considering a move right now and want to know the value of your property, instead of booking for one of our agents to come out and see you, email us the details and address of your property and we will be able to come back to you quickly with a guideline which, if you are comfortable with, we can then discuss the details of your home in more detail. If you do prefer to book in with an agent, we can come to your property as long as it is safe to do so, following government advice. We can then facilitate your sale or let with virtual viewings and 24/7 technology.

CORONAVIRUS UPDATE: 24/03/2020

We are committed to providing as much business as usual to aid our customers, suppliers and staff in this difficult period and you can continue to contact us by phone or email and our other online facilities. However, please note that our branches are now physically closed to assist in the national effort to contain the spread of the Coronavirus and COVID-19. To contact your local branch, please go to our 'contact' page above.